ANNOUNCEMENTS

N. E. O. P. meets tonight.

Miss M. C. Adles will be in New York all this week. In Norwich week of April 17th. See adv.

SPECIAL BILL AT THE AUDITO-RIUM.

It is doubtful if there has ever been a show put on at a popular priced vaudeville house that excels or even equals the bill presented at the Auditorium for the first three days of the present week. A big comedy number and the feature of the bill is the Four present week. A big comedy number and the feature of the bill is the Four Bragdons, who present the roaring comedietta "Fun in a Vaudeville Agency." This act has been featured over every house on the circuit of the United Booking Offices, which is the largest concern of its kind in the world, and a treat is promised to Norwich theater-goers.

For lovers of good singing, the act of Madeline Burdette. "The Popular Soprano." will especially appeal. Miss Burdette is a strikingly handsome woman of the brustle type, and the pessessor of a beautiful rich soprano voice. New York has set its hall mark of approval on her, and it remains for the people of this city to verify their good judgment.

Coming direct from the larger vaudeville houses on the Poli circuit are Anthony and Andrew Visocchi, in their eriginal musical novelty. These boys are whistling and organetto virtuosos, and their work in this line is a positive revelation to those who think they have heard whistlers. They are a sure into on any bill.

The original Alabama Kid is Josh Dale, a clever exponent of minstrelsy, whose burnt-corkisms are a sure cure for that tired feeling. Add up the these four acts and the total is "some show."

The famous Auditorium photoplays will be very much in evidence, and the selection of subjects shows special care. All the best makes will be represented, such as the Imp, Reliance, Thanbouser, Italia, and others.

THE VILLAGE POSTMASTER.

THE VILLAGE POSTMASTER.

The Poli Players open their 18th week in Norwich this afternoon in the rural comedy drama, "The Village Postmaster." To start the week off well, pretty souvenirs will be presented to all the ladies attending. The play itself has been discussed so much that little remains to be said in advance. All the special features have been brought to public attention, and those who have seen the play before speak of it in such high terms of praise that the interest in the opening performance is executionally strong. The rainstorm effect was brought on from New York as soon as the last performance at the Metropolis rheater was finished Saturday night, and the village band has been rehearsing for several days.

BREED THEATER.

The Outlook, one of the most thrill-The Outlook, one of the most until-ing Indian stories ever-portrayed, is the feature picture at the Breed today, and is brimful of exciting moments, and picturesque cowboys and wily Indians, Two western girls are captured by Indians, while out riding with a party, the rest of the party escaping, and hasten to tell the families of the girls' whereabouts. A posse, is formed which soon comes upon the band of marauding Indians, who are set upon and at an opportune moment the posse gains entrance to the center of the camp, and seizing the Indians who are holding the girls, dash the Indians into the river where they are soon shot by the enraged whites.

A monster reel of Biograph contains the great story. Was He a Coward? and Is one of the powerful dramas for which this company is well noted.

A big Edison picture and some of the Pathe American comedy, which is so popular at the Breed, completes the bill.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE

To Be Held in Plainfield Grange Hall on Tuesday-Sessions Open to the Public.

A farmers' institute will be held at Plainfield Grange hall, by invitation of Plainfield grange, when the state board of agriculture will conduct an all-day public institute, on Tuesday, April 11th, Following is the programme: 11 a. m.—Address of welcome by master of grange; address by Dr. W. E. Britton, superiment station, New Haven, Spraying for Insects and Fungous Diseases. Lunch will be provided for all by the ladies of the grange. Afternoon session, 1.30—Address by Prof. L. A. Clinton, Connecticut Agricultural college, Affalfa and Clover in Connecticut; address by Prof. A. G. Gulley, Connecticut Agricultural college, How to Handle the Apple Orchard of Connecticut as a Profitable Investment. Discussion and questions will follow each address. The committee for the grange includes Henry Dorance, Edward Hall, Nathan Exley, H. B. Brown and Turner Green; for the board, James B. Palmer and I. C. Fanton. farmers' institute will be held at

CONNECTICUT FISHERIES. This State Leads All Others in the Oyster Industry.

Connecticut's cyster industry leads in value that of any other state, amounting to $2,552,000 in 1908, while in the total value of fishery products, $2,382,009, this state ranked ninth. These and many other interesting facts appear in the special United States census report on the fisheries industry of the United States for the year 1908, prepared under the supervision of William M. Staufft, chief statistician of manufactures, and soon to be issued by Census Director E. Dana Durand.

The principal fishing grounds of the state are Long Island Sound and the Connecticut river, but commercial fishing is also conducted to some extent on the Saugatuck, Housatonic, West, East, Indian, Four Mile, Mystic and Pawcatuck rivers, as well as on some minor streams and inlets.

Excluding shoresmen, 1,335 persons were employed in 1905, and 1,826 in 1898, though it was 2,314 in 1888. The decrease from 1899 to 1893 is ascribed principally to the use of better equipment, both in vessels and in apparatus of capture.

ment, both in vessels and in apparatus of capture.

The total value of the product increased sleadily from 1889 to 1965, when it was $3.074,000, after which a slight decrease occurred. The fluctuations are principally due to variations in the oyster products, which formed $2 per cent. of the total fisheries product of the state in 1903, and $9 per cent in 1908; $2 per cent. in 1902; $9 per cent. in 1893, and 68 per cent. in 1835.

In 1889 the products aggregated $2,-672,000 pounds, which was 17,68,000 pounds greater than in 1905, but the value was $1,616,000 less, showing how prices have advanced. The weight of the product of 1908 was 25,730,000 pounds less than that of 1899, but the value was $1,424,000 greater.

WOMAN'S MUNICIPAL LEAGUE. Norwalk Junior League Prospers-Rest Room Grows in Popularity.

Monday afternoon the Woman's Municipal league of South Norwalk met in the Congregational church parlors. After routine business, many matters connected with the league's work were discussed.

Mrs. Kendall reported a membership of 60 in the Junior Civic league, and that the children all enjoyed reading their new magazines.

During March nearly 1,300 persons visited the rest room.

Long Island City Industry for North

Wilton.

The Marhoffer mill at North Wilton which is equipped with a 15-horse-power steam engine has been found inadequate in power. There is, therefore, in process of installation a 90-horsepower engine which will not only furnish power for the feed mill and sawmill but also for a shingle mill and various carving and wood working machines. It is also stated by Mr. Marhoffer that the factory in Long Island City will soon be transferred to North Wilton.

Island City will soon be transferred to North Wilton.

More Pay and Half Holiday.

The journsymen painters and decorators affiliated with local No. 190, of Bridgeport, are quietly rejoloing over the peaceful outcome of their agitation for an increase in wages and a half holiday on Saturdays. Effective April 1 was the agreement reached with the bosses whereby the union men of that craft are hereafter to receive 45 cents an hour, an increase of 4 cents per hour, with a waekly working scale of 45 hours, which gives them the half holiday on Saturday.
